

THE C.H.A.D

Welcome

Volume 1, Issue 3, 01/23/17

This is a very special issue of The C.H.A.D because today is my birthday! I would like to thank all of you that remembered and gave me wonderful gifts and kind words this morning. If you did not, well, there is still time to email me, draw me a picture, buy me a gift card, or sign me up for the jelly of the month club. Now on to the good stuff....

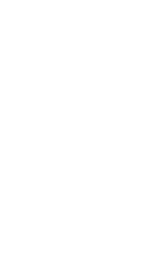

Digital Citizenship

Did you know that our school district has a website that is devoted to Digital Citizenship? In collaboration with Common Sense Media, the SRVUSD has developed a website (<http://www.digitalsrvusd.net>) that outlines what it means to be a good digital citizen. On the website you can find all sorts of great information for teachers, students, and parents. Check it out and click around.

Technology Quote of the week

"The first rule of any technology used in a business is that automation applied to an efficient operation will magnify the efficiency. The second is that automation applied to an inefficient operation will magnify the inefficiency."— Bill Gates

Geography Game

Want to play a fun game that challenges you and your students with geography knowledge? Try the game Smarty Pins! The game allows you to score points by answering trivia with a pin on google maps. The closer you are to the correct location, the better you do. There are different categories to choose from, try them all!

Remember when...

On January 10th 2017 it was the 10 year anniversary of the first iphone. It is amazing when I reflect on communication before the world's first "Smartphone." Take a minute to think about what you could and could not do prior to the invention of the iphone. Pretty soon we are going to have students that have never know anything other than a world with smart phones. On average, Freshman were about 5 years old when Steve Jobs made this announcement on January 10th, 2007.
